

Ask For the Nations Ministries

Ask of Me, and I will give You the nations Psalm 2:8

October, 2011 –
January, 2012

Dear Family and Friends:

Hello! We pray that all is well with each one of you, and that your Holiday Season and New Year has been blessed. We have so much to share in this newsletter, that we will get right to it!

Introducing, Eva!

Before I share all the exciting news about Ghana, I've just gotta brag about my new niece! Eva was born in November, and I was lucky enough to visit her when she was just a week old. Last Sunday, she was dedicated to Jesus. Doesn't she look so pretty all dressed up? And check out that hair!

It's Finally Time!!

We have a mandate to go to Ghana, and like never before everything is saying GO NOW. Work has slowed down for our handyman business. The house we rent is being sold, and is priced to sell quickly. We have people requesting to visit us in Ghana, and projects waiting for us there. We know God is leading us, and we are very excited as we follow Him!

Our desire, what we know God wants us to do, is to live and minister in Ghana. Never have we felt we were to be part time or short term missionaries. Because of this, we've held back waiting for everything to be right. Waiting for all the pieces to be in place so we can go knowing it is "forever". However, there is an element of faith and trust required that "having all your ducks in a row" doesn't allow for. It seems we are at that place. We've gotta choose to take the leap, and trust that God's got a plan, even if we don't.

So, we're gonna jump. Our airfare has been purchase, and we leave for Africa March 20th! We will stay for at least six months. We are believing that in that time, God is going to make a way for us to stay more permanently.

Looking Forward...

What will we be doing our first six months in Ghana? Our schedule is filling up quickly! We will continue working on the Canaan Life Project. The CLP includes teaching vocation and business skills and Biblical financial principles for financial independence. It also includes working with the churches in areas of discipleship and evangelism.

Our team member, Tesia, will be focus on ministering to women and children. She will be teaching a young women's group focused on purity, and hopes to start an afterschool children's program in our neighborhood.

The first week of April we will be apart of the New Testament Assembly all church conference. (With the possibility of a very special guest speaker from Oregon!)

The following week, we will have a visitor from Truelife Church. Gary will be coming to Ghana to look at a few construction and water reservation projects we will be moving forward with this year.

In July a very special family (our neighbors in Fort Mill) will be visiting and ministering with us for the month. God has called this special family to Africa, and we are excited to be apart of their journey to becoming missionaries.

Continue on the reverse side for photos and family news!

Looking Back...

2011 was a good year, full of God's blessings and faithfulness. In March, Jody went to Mexico to put a roof on an orphanage. In May, our kids went on their own adventure as they visited family on their own in Oregon. August we visited family and friends in Portland, and Malachi was Baptized! Pastor Frank came to visit us in November, sharing his vision and love for his people with our friends at the World Outreach Center. November also brought the arrival of baby Eva to our family. We closed out the year with a big surprise for our kids—Nana and Papa showing up for Christmas. In between all these activities, God continued to work in our hearts and lives, preparing the way for what 2012 will bring. We serve an awesome God!!

Final Funds needed. Can you help?

To ensure we are fully funded for six months, our team needs to raise an additional $7,000. These funds will help purchase airfare for Tesia, and cover additional ministry expenses our team will incur during our time in Ghana. If 70 families give $100, we will meet our goal. Would you prayerfully consider helping our team?
